inspiring, caring and courageous lady. Must read! Highly recommendable!

KurzbeschreibungBorn in Birmingham, England, at the beginning of World War II Pat Brookes was the eldest of five children. She had a poor childhood and her mother struggled to bring her and her siblings up without a father. When her mother remarried, the family emigrated to Australia, where she herself married and had two of her four children, before returning to England six years later. During her life she developed cancer and was cured of that in Lourdes; her youngest brother committed suicide; she met her real father after thirty years and then, sadly lost her only daughter. Pat worked in the Legion of Mary for twenty years. This is a true story of someone whose strong Catholic faith helped her overcome many difficulties and go on to enjoy her life, despite her set backs.
